TO FORCE PROGRESS?

RUSHCLIFFE Borough Council may have to go back to court to get action in having the former Islamic school on what was the RAF Officers Mess site at Flintham demolished.

The owners were earlier this year given until a date in April to take action to organise demolition work in regard to removing the eyesore building, but nothing happened.

Mr Dave Mitchell, Executive Manager Communities of Rushcliffe Borough Council, told the Parish News that the owners now have another six months to appeal or act and if not the Borough will go to court again and seek approval to take action themselves to demolish the ruined buildings.

Mr Mitchell said the Borough would be able to retrieve the expenditure they have incurred up to the court action and would have to get tender prices for the demolition work to take place. Would-be developers would be aware ther
